FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Local company one of only 11 in nation to handle high volume Xerox devices

July 30, 2007 - C.A.M. Corp, a Lakeland, MI technology company specializing in the sales, support and service of imaging solutions including a range of multi-function business products, has been selected by Xerox Corp. as one of only 11 firms nationwide to participate in a new sales program.

Under the agreement with Xerox, C.A.M. Corp will begin providing its customers with the complete line of high-volume, high-speed multifunction devices, with speeds of up to 90 pages per minute.

Previously, sales of this sector of Xerox equipment was handled directly by Xerox, with only printers (both color and black and white) sold by North American Resellers, the group to which C.A.M. Corp belongs.

The move by Xerox to open up the high-speed, high-volume market to the NAR group recognizes the key relationships being established and nurtured by C.A.M. Corp.

David Brownlee Sr., president of C.A.M. Corp, says building and maintaining strong customer service relationships is at the heart of the new program.

"We're delighted to have earned the trust and recognition of Xerox in being able to participate in this very limited program to handle the high-volume, high-speed multifunction products," says Brownlee. "Our customers have come to appreciate the high level of service we provide and this gives us even more credibility in the marketplace as our capabilities increase."
